JOHN DWIGHT & CO'S
SODA SALÆRATUS
MAY be found at the Sugar Warehouse of Goodrich & Hunter, No. 42 East water-st
The attention of the public is called to this article as being superior to Pearlash Saleratus in its effect—giving cookery a more delicate appearance and flavor; and also as more wholesome—Soda being more congenial to the human system than Potash. It is more economical than Pearlash Saleratus—a less quantity being required to produce the same effect. The article is put up in pound papers with full directions for use
Also may be found, John Dwight & Co's
Washing & Cleansing Powders,
which will be found, on trial, a very superior article, saving much labor of washing Clothes, &c. It will soften hard water. To Engineers and Machinists it is invaluable for removing grease from Machinery and other iron works leaving the iron perfectly dry, and not liable to rust.
Directions for use are printed on each package.

RECOLLECTIONS OF A POLICEMAN.

From Chambers' Edinburgh Journal.

The records of police courts afford but imperfect evidence of the business already effected by the officers attached to them. The machinery of English criminal law in practice, is so subservient to the caprice of individual prosecutors, that instances are constantly occurring in which flagrant violations of natural justice are, from various motives, corrupt and otherwise, withdrawn not only from the cognizance of judicial authority, but from the reprobation of public opinion. Compromises are usually effected between the apprehension of the incalcated parties and the public examination before the magistrate. The object of prosecution has been perhaps obtained by the preliminary step of arrest, or a criminal understanding has been arrived at in the interval; it is then found utterly hopeless to proceed however manifest may have appeared the guilt of the prisoner. If you adopt the expedient of compelling the attendance of the accuser, it is, nine cases out of ten, mere time and trouble thrown away. The utter forgetfulness of memory, the loose recollection of facts so vividly remembered but a few hours before, the delicately scrupulous hesitation to depose confidently to the clearest verities, evinced by the reluctant prosecutor, render a conviction almost impossible; so that, except in cases of flagrant and startling crimes, which are of course earnestly prosecuted by the crown lawyers, offences against our sovereign lady the queen, her crown and dignity, as criminal indictments run, if no aggrieved subject voluntarily appears to challenge in behalf of his liege lady, remain unchastised and not unfrequently unexposed. From several examples of this prevalent abuse which have come within my knowledge, I select the following instance, merely changing the names of the parties.

My services, the superintendent late one afternoon informed me, were required in a perplexed and entangled affair, which would probably occupy me for some time, as orders had been given to investigate the matter thoroughly. "There," he added, "is a Mr. Repton, a highly respectable country solicitor's agent. He is from Lancashire, and is staying at Webb's Hotel, Piccadilly. You are to see him at once. He will put you in possession of all the facts—surmises rather, I should say, for the facts, to my apprehension, are scant enough—connected with the case, and you will then use all possible diligence to ascertain, first, if the alleged crime has really been committed, and if so, of course to bring the criminal to justice."

I found Mr. Repton, a stout, bald-headed, gentlemanly person, apparently about sixty years of age, just in the act of going out. "I have a pressing engagement for this evening, Mr. Waters," said he, after glancing at the introductory note I had brought, "and cannot possibly go into the business with the attention and minuteness it requires. But I'll tell you what: one of the parties concerned, and the only one to whom you will have especially to deal, is, I know, to be at the Covent Garden Theatre this evening. It is of course necessary that you should be thoroughly acquainted with his person; and if you will go with me in the cab that is waiting outside, I will step with you into the theatre and point him out." I assented, and on entering Covent Garden pit, Mr. Repton, who kept behind me to avoid observation, directed my attention to a group of persons occupying the front seats of the third box in the lower tier from the stage, on the right hand of the house. They were—a gentleman of about thirty years of age; his wife, a very elegant person, a year or two younger; and three children, the eldest of whom, a boy, could not have been more than six or seven years old. This done, Mr. Repton left the theatre, and about two hours afterwards I did the same.

The next morning I breakfasted with the Lancashire solicitor by appointment. As soon as it was concluded, business was at once entered upon.

"You clearly observed Sir Charles Malvern, yesterday evening, I presume" said Mr. Repton.

"I paid great attention to the gentleman you pointed out to me," I answered. "If he be Sir Charles Malvern."

"He is, or at least——But of that presently.—First, let me inform you that Malvern, a few months ago, was a beggared gamester, or nearly so, to speak with precision. He is now in good bodily health, has a charming wife, and a family to whom he is much attached, an unincumbered estate of about twelve thousand a year, and has not gambled since. He came into possession of the property. Is there, I think you may think by the way, that, as her husband died before succeeding to the baronetcy, she is entitled to that appellation of honor; we, however, call her so out of courtesy—that Lady Redwood, though prematurely confined in consequence of the intelligence of her husband's uncanely death, had given birth to a female child, and that both mother and daughter were as well as might be expected. This, you will agree, seemed perfectly satisfactory?"

"Entirely so."

"So I thought. Mr. Malvern was now (indefinitionably, whether Sir Charles Malvern or not, the proprietor of Redwood estate, burthened as with a charge, in accordance with the conditions of the entail—of a thousand pounds life annuity to the late Mr. Redwood's infant daughter.

"Sir Charles returned to the Redwood manor house, where his wife and family soon afterwards arrived—Lady Redwood had been joined, I understood, by her mother, Mrs. Ashton, and would, when able to undertake the journey, return to her maternal home. It was about two months after Sir Thomas Redwood's death that I determined to pay Lady Redwood a visit, in order to the winding up of the personal estate, which it was desirable to accomplish as speedily as possible, and then a new and terrible light flashed upon me.

"What in heaven's name!" I exclaimed, for the first time breaking silence—"what could there be to reveal?"

"Only," rejoined Mr. Repton, "that ill, delirious, as Lady Redwood admitted herself to have been, it was her intimate, unconquerable conviction that she had given birth to twins!"

"Good God! And you suspect?"

"We don't know what to suspect. Should the lady's confident belief be correct, the missing child might have been a boy. You understand?"

"I do. But is there any tangible evidence to justify this horrible suspicion?"

"Yes the surgeon, apothecary, and his wife, a Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who attended Lady Redwood, have suddenly disappeared from Chester, and, from no explainable motive, having left or abandoned a fair business there."

"That has certainly an ugly look."

"True; and a few days ago I received information that Williams had been seen in Birmingham. He was well dressed, and not apparently in any business."

"There certainly appears some ground for suspicion. What plan of operations do you propose?"

"That," replied Mr. Repton, "I must leave to your more practised sagacity. I can only undertake that no means shall be lacking that may be required."

"It will be better, perhaps," I suggested after an interval of reflection, "that I should proceed to Birmingham at once. You have of course an accurate description of the persons of Williams and his wife ready?"

"I have; and very accurate pen-and-ink sketches I am told they are. Besides these, I have, also here," continued Mr. Repton, taking from his pocketbook a sheet of carefully folded satin-paper, "a full description of the female baby, drawn up by its mother, under the impression that twins always—I believe they generally do—closely resemble each other. Light hair, blue eyes, dimpled chin,' and so on. The lady—a very charming person, I assure you, and mild and gentle as a fawn—is chiefly anxious to recover her child. You and I, should our suspicions be confirmed, have other duties to perform."

This was pretty nearly all that passed, and the next day I was in Birmingham.

The search, as I was compelled to be cautious in my inquiries, was tedious, but finally successful. Mr. and Mrs. Williams I discovered living in a pretty house, with neat grounds attached, about two miles from Birmingham on the coach road to Wolverhampton. Their assumed name was Burridge, as I ascertained from a servant girl, who fetched their dinner and supper, beer, and occasionally wine and spirits, from a neighboring tavern; that they had one child, a few months old, of whom neither father nor mother seemed very fond. By dint of much perseverance, I, at length got upon pretty familiar terms with Mr. Burridge, alias Williams. He spent his evenings regularly in a tavern, but with all the pains-taking indefatigable ingenuity I employed, the chief knowledge I acquired, during three weeks of assiduous endeavor, was that my friend Burridge intended, immediately after a visit which he expected shortly to receive from a rich and influential relative in London, to emigrate to America, at all events to go abroad. This was, however, precious information, and very rarely, indeed, was I seen after I had obtained it, out of my sight or observation. At length perseverance obtained its reward. One morning I discovered my friend, much more sparely attired than ordinarily, make way to the railway station, and there question with eager looks every passenger that alighted from the first class carriages. At last a gentleman whom I instantly recognized, in spite of his shawl and other wrappings, arrived by the express train from London. Williams instantly accosted him, a cab was called, and away they drove. I followed in another, and saw them both alight at a hotel in New street. I also alighted, and was mentally debating how to proceed, when Williams came out of the tavern, and proceded in the direction of his home. I followed, overtook him, and soon contrived to ascertain that he and his wife had important business to transact in Birmingham the next morning, which would render it impossible he should meet me as I proposed, till two or three o'clock in the afternoon, at the earliest, and the next morning, my esteemed friend informed me, they would leave the place, probably forever."

An hour after this interesting conversation, I, accompanied by the chief of the Birmingham police, was closeted with the landlord of the hotel in New street, a highly respectable person, who promised every assistance in his power. Sir Chas. Malvern had, we found, engaged a private room for the transaction of important business with some persons he expected in the morning and our plans were soon fully matured and agreed upon.

"I slept little that night, and immediately after breakfast, hastened, with my Birmingham colleague, to the hotel. The apartment assigned for Sir Charles Malvern's use had been a bedroom, and a large wardrobe, with a high wing at each end, still remained in it. We tried if it would hold us, and with very little stooping and squeezing, found it would do very well. The landlord soon gave us the signal to be on the alert, and in we jammed ourselves, locking the wing doors on the inside. A minute or two afterwards, Sir Charles, and Mr. and Mrs. Williams, entered, and paper, pens and ink having been brought, business commenced in right earnest. Their conversation it is needless to detail. It will suffice to observe, that it was manifest Sir Charles, by a heavy bribe, had induced the accoucheur and his wife to conceal the birth of the male child, which, as I suspected, was that which Williams and his spouse were bringing up as their own. I must do the fictitious baronet the justice to say that he had from the first the utmost anxiety that no harm should befal the infant.

Mr. Malvern's nervous dread lest his confederates should be questioned had induced their hurried departure from Chester, and it now appeared that he had become aware of the suspicions entertained by Mr. Repton, and could not rest till the Williamses and the child were out of the country. It was now insisted, by the woman more especially, that the agreement for the large annual payment to be made by Sir Charles, should be fairly written out and signed in plain "black and white," to use Mrs. Williams' expression, in order that no future misunderstandings might arise. This Mr. Malvern strongly objected to; but finding the women would accept of no other terms, he sullenly complied and at the same time reiterated that if any harm should befal the boy, to whom he intended he said, to leave a handsome fortune—he would care, regardless of consequences, to himself to pay the Williamses a shilling.

A silence of several minutes followed, broke only by the scratching of the pen on paper. The time to me seemed an age, squeezed, crooked, cuffed as I was in that narrow box, and so I afterwards learned it did to my fellow sufferer. At length, Mr. Malvern said, in the same cautious whisper, in which they had all hitherto spoken, "This will do, I think," and read what he had written. Mr. and Mrs. Williams signified their approval; and as now matters were fully ripe, I gently turned the key, and very softly pushed the open the door. The backs of the amiable trio were towards me, and as my boots were off, and the apartment was thickly carpeted, I approached unperceived, and, the inexpressible horror and astonishment of the parties concerned, whose heads were bent eagerly over the important document, a hand, which belonged to neither of them, was thrust silently but swiftly forward, and grasped the precious instrument.

A fierce exclamation from Mr. Malvern, as he started from his seat, and a convulsive scream from Mrs. Williams, as she fell back in her chair, followed; and to add to the animation of the tableau, my friend at the opposite wing emerged at the same moment from his hiding place.

Mr. Malvern comprehended at a glance the situation of affairs, and made a furious dash at the paper. I was quicker as well as stronger than he, and he failed in his object. Resistance was of course out of the question; and in less than two hours we were speeding on the railroad towards London, accompanied by the child, whom we entrusted to Williams' servant maid.

Mr. Repton was still in town, and Mrs. Ashton, Lady Redwood and her unmarried sister, in their impatience of intelligence, had arrived several days before. I had the pleasure to accompany Mr. Repton with the child and his temporary nurse to Osborne's Hotel in the Adelphi; and I really at first feared for the excited mother's reason, or that she would do the infant a mischief, so tumultuous, so frenzied was her rapturous joy at the recovery of the lost treasure. When placed in the cot beside the female infant, the resemblance of the one to the other was almost perfect. I never saw before nor since so perfect a likeness. This was enough for the mother; but, fortunately, we had much more satisfactory evidence, legally viewed, to establish the identity of the child in a court of law, should the necessity arise for doing so.

Here, as far as I am concerned, all positive knowledge of this curious piece of family history ends. Of subsequent transactions between the parties I have no personal cognizance. I only know there was a failure of justice, and I can pretty well guess from what motives. The parties I arrested in Birmingham were kept in strict custody for several days; but no inducement, no threats could induce the ill-starred of the inquiry to appear against the detected criminals.

Mrs. and Miss Ashton, Lady Redwood and her children, left town the next day but one for Redwood Manor; and Mr. Repton coldly told the angry superintendent that "he had no instructions to prosecute." He, too, was speedily off, and the prisoners were necessarily discharged out of custody.

I saw about 3 weeks afterwards in a morning paper, that Mr. Malvern, "whom the birth of a posthumous in a direct line had necessarily deprived of all chance of succession to the Redwood estates, and the baronetcy, which the newspapers had so absurdly conferred on him, was, with his amiable lady and family, about to leave England for Italy, where they intended to remain some time. The expressed, but uncompleted will of the deceased baronet, Sir Thomas Redwood, had been, it was further stated, carried into effect, and legacies intended for Mr. Malvern paid over to him. The Williamses never, to my knowledge, attained to the dignity of a notice in the newspapers, but I believe they pursued their original intention of passing over to America.

Thus not only "offence's gilded hand," but some of the best feelings of our nature, not unfrequently "shove by justice," and place a concealing glove over deeds which, under other circumstances, would have infallibly consigned the perpetrators to a prison, or perhaps the hulks. Whether, however, any punishment could effectually grapple with an abuse which springs from motives natural and amiable, is a question which I must leave to wiser heads than mine to discuss and determine.

ANOTHER "COMMERCIAL" PAROXYSM.

The Commercial of yesterday, dropping its very original disquisitions upon the relative financial ability displayed in the negotiation of our City and State loans, "tries back" upon the old Fox River Improvement scent and "gives tongue" upon its discovery of "the Governor's Act of Nullification." This "Nullification" consists simply in the Governor's declining to do certain things required by an act of April 14th, 1852, which he believes to have been repealed by a subsequent act of April 19, 1852. So believing, the Governor had the alternative of poeketing his Conscientious scruples and violating his oath, or of doing his duty and refusing to authorize, advise, or countenance the issue of the Improvement Scrip. He chose the latter course, for which the Commercial, having no particular regard for oaths or Constitutions, warmly denounces him. It would have been much more to the purpose if the Commercial had published and answered the Governor's reasons for this course; but it very carefully withholds the one and very prudently abstains from the other. Thus, having nothing else to say, it resorts to detraction and abuse—a style of argument extremely well adapted to its case and its capacity.

We do not propose to follow it in this path, further than to point out two transparent misstatements. One of these charges the Governor with "inveterate, consistent and fated enmity" to the Improvement. The charge is absurd on its face. Gov. FAIRWELL can have no possible motive for hostility to this work, but a great many for befriending it. There is every consideration, personal, political and pecuniary, why he should do all in his power to expedite the progress of the Improvement, and not a single one for wishing to retard, or arrest it. There can be no shadow of doubt therefore that his action in the premises was prompted by the strongest convictions of his duty, as Governor, to the Constitution, Laws and People of the State.

Another notorious untruth in the Commercial's philippic is the statement that "the large body of the press and the people of the State, have been equally just and unsparing in condemning his action."

So far as the press is concerned, we have already effectually exploded this fabrication. To the Commercial's list of papers which denounced the Veto, we have opposed another and a larger one of those which upheld and defended it; and we have pointed to the significant fact that while none but ultra partizan papers (with a single exception) assailed the Governor, Whig, Democratic and Free Soil presses alike sustained him. So much for the "large body of the press." As for the People, we do not hesitate to say that it a direct vote could be had upon this question, the Governor's Veto would be approved by at least three to one. As the Wisconsin well said, "Governor FAIRWELL's course in this matter must meet with the approbation of disinterested persons almost to a man."

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY.

A few weeks since the Trustees of the University of the State of Indiana sent a very flattering invitation to Chancellor LATHROP, to accept the Presidency of that Institution. The Chancellor, as we rejoice to learn, has declined this invitation, preferring to continue in his present position as the head of our Wisconsin University. We should have esteemed his acceptance of the Indiana offer as a very serious loss to this State, for it would have been no easy task to have filled his place. Our University, indeed, almost owes its being to Chancellor LATHROP; for it may well be doubted, whether, without his aid and counsel, and the confidence inspired by his character and abilities, it could have advanced, for some years yet, beyond the preliminaries of an organization. The Chancellor, therefore, may be said to occupy "a double trust" in our State University, as the energetic projector, and the successful Superintendent; nor would any ordinary inducements tempt him to abandon an enterprize of which he may, with good ground, claim to be both the creator and conductor.

We should ourselves be exceedingly loth to lose him. The University, under his efficient and judicious management, is rapidly rising in the public estimation, and already offers to the youth of this State the opportunity and advantages of a thorough education. The number of students has steadily increased since the Institution was first opened to the public, and the standard of scholarship will already compare favorably with that in any Western, or in most Eastern Colleges. It needs but the continued confidence and good-will of the Wisconsin public, and wise and encouraging action on the part of the Legislature, to make our University, under the auspices of Chancellor LATHROP, at once the pride and ornament of this State, and a worthy ensample to our Western neighbors.

☞ The Green Bay Spectator, and the Milwaukee Sentinel, approve the decision of Mr. Buttrick in the case of the Lost Child. The Sentinel bases its decision wholly on the testimony that Mr. and Mrs. Partridge had offered to buy the child.—Oshkosh Democrat.

Not at all. We based our opinion upon the whole current of the evidence, but especially upon the voluntary surrender of the child by Mr. and Mrs. Partridge to its Indian mother, after they had reclaimed and kept it for an entire day in their possession, and also upon the refusal of that mother to part with it on any terms. We regarded this as the unerring testimony of nature. If Mr or Mrs. Partridge had the faintest hope even that the child in dispute was their lost little one, they never could have given it up, of their own accord and unhesitatingly, as they did, to the Indian claimant.

PHYSIOLOGY AND MECHANICS—The italicised heading of the following item is—of course it is—from the Wisconsin of last evening. It couldn't come from any other source half so gracefully:

BOSTON, May 20.

—The danger of straining the lungs—This morning, a young man named Geo. H. Randall, fell dead in Rev. Mr. Coolidge's church, while stooping down to blow the organ. Cause, disease of the heart.

THE FAKIR OF SIVA.—We learn from Chicago that nearly one thousand persons were present at the first representation of the "Fakir of Siva" in that City. He performs there throughout this week and will next visit Milwaukee.

Characteristic Misrepresentation.

The Fort Winnebago Times, not content with abusing Governor Fairwell in most unmeasured language, for his course in relation to Mr. Martin's Bill and script, very foolishly proceeds, on the slightest possible foundation, to write down Mr. Richardson, the Commissioner of the Board of Works, from the West. That paper says:—

He was one of the most zealous and determined opponents of the improvement to be found in the Assembly. But when the time came for action on the Governor's veto, Mr. Richardson's seat was empty. The gentleman had probably obtained a slight foreboding of public sentiment from the proceedings of the citizens meeting held by the Clerk in the Assembly Chamber; and being possessed of a lively imagination, it was not very difficult for him to make a pretty accurate calculation of the reception he would meet with along the line of the Fox River. On the occasion referred to, he was reported sick and unable to answer the call of the House. We have formed a very favorable opinion of the disposition of Messrs. Proudfit and Frame towards the improvement, and regret that we are obliged to admit that we have not a particle of confidence in Mr. Richardson.

Now much of the above is false—much purely imaginary—and the rest in miserably bad taste.—There was no such being as a "zealous and determined opponent of the Improvement" in the Assembly—unless Mr. Martin's series of bills constituted the Improvement; and even were that the case, the assertion is false as regards Mr Richardson. That gentleman was sick during the time when the veto message was under consideration, and for some time, both before and after the question was decided. He is not man to shrink from the discharge of his sworn duty at any time—much less is he a man to be intimidated by any such demonstrations as are referred to by the Times.

Notwithstanding the tone in which our cotemporary announces, before having made Mr. Richardson's acquaintance, that he has "not a particle of confidence in him," we appeal from such prejudice to his better judgment when better informed.

Western Securities.

Among the very best securities thrown into market for investment at this time, are the various City and County Bonds, issued in order to fund outstanding debts, or to raise money for works of local importance. Their rate of interest is much higher, generally, than other securities, though the time for redemption is often less. The funding of the debt of this city has already thrown into the market over $10,000 in bonds, at 10 per cent interest, running 5 years. During the last week or two, in addition to the $10,000 negotiated in New York at 1½ per cent premium, or its equivalent, large investments have been made by capitalists here at 90@95 per cent on the face of these bonds. We learn that they are now at par, and do not doubt that they will very shortly stand at a premium.

Another issue of bonds has just gone forward from this State; we refer to the Sheboygan County and Village Harbor Bonds

The people of Sheboygan County met last fall in every town, and appointed Delegates to a County Convention, instructing them to vote and use their best efforts to procure the passage of a law, authorizing a loan upon the credit of the County, of Twenty Thousand Dollars, for the construction of a good and safe Harbor at the mouth of the river, at the village of Sheboygan.

The village also proposed to raise Ten Thousand Dollars, by loan, for the same purpose: the public sentiment was unanimous upon the subject.

A law was passed to carry out the wishes of the people; Commissioners were appointed; the Bond was organized, and, we understand, that Bonds are prepared drawing 10 per cent interest per annum, payable in 10 and 12 years.

We learn that our fellow-citizen, Capt. Hawley, has taken the contract to build a good Harbor, for $29,000, and knowing the energy and perseverance of the man, and the wonderful power of his Patent Steam Dredge, we have no doubt he will do as much for $29,000, as the Government usually do with 50 per cent more.

We understand that Mr. GEO. E. H. DAY, of this city, has been employed to negotiate these bonds, and leaves for the East this morning, for that purpose. He has been offered 100c. on the dollar for them in this city, but expects to, and do better, will get more.

Sheboygan deserves great credit for her enterprise in this matter, and every dollar expended by the town and county, should be refunded by the General Government.

☞ The Milwaukee Sentinel labors hard to prove that the Governor's veto of the improvement bill is sustained by the Whig press of the State—in its list includes the free soil also—the Western Star, at Elkhorn and the Free Democrat. Let this be remembered. If this is sought to be made a political matter, we are perfectly willing that it should be so regarded.—Berlin Mercury.

The Sentinel has done no such thing. No one has attempted to make a party matter out of the question, in this quarter, except the Commercial. The opinions which we hold are those entertained by individuals and presses of all parties almost every where in the State, except immediately along the line of the Improvement, where local interests are suffered to prevail over all right and reason.

THE MAILS.—It has been observed by one of our contemporaries that the Washington mail from New York misses every Monday morning. —Washington Republic.

Glad of it. Hope it will miss every morning of the week. If our friends in that region can only have a few like doses of the "hair" of the dog that has bitten "us" in the West for so long a time, there may be something done.

CLEVELAND LINES.—The Buckeye State and Caspia, are to ply during the season between Cleveland and Buffalo; the Queen City, and Alabama to Dunkirk, and the Cleveland and Forest City to Detroit. The Herald says of these last:

These boats leave Cleaveland in the evening, and connect with the Michigan Central Railroad for Chicago and Milwaukee. We learn that arrangements have been or will be made by which passengers can procure tickets at the railroad offices in Cincinnati or Columbus, for Chicago or Milwaukee. The time from Cincinnati to Chicago will be thirty-one hours.

HIGH WATER UP NORTH.—We learn by the Cleopatra, which arrived here from Bay de Noquet, Monday night, that the streams flowing into the Bay are higher than ever before known, and that it has been with great difficulty that the Lumbermen have saved their logs from being carried off into the Lake. The Cleopatra, besides a full load of Lumber, brought down 146 Martin, Fisher and Mink skins which were bought by WELLS & HILL for $285.

BARABOO MANUFACTURES.—The Standard gives evidence of the enterprise of our citizens who are filling up the Baraboo Valley, in its notice of a boat which recently left that river, having on board 2000 half bushels, 1500 peck, and 1300 half peck measures made in that region. That is the way they thrive.

FROM MINNESOTA.—On the 25th ult., the good people of St. Paul were favored with the heaviest snow storm of the year.

The new steamer St. Paul was greeted with hearty demonstrations of welcome. She seems to be a fine and fast boat, having made the trip up from Galena in 35 hours.

WISCONSIN RIVER.—The Ft. Winnebago Times states that the steamer Enterprise, Capt. Scott, is running regularly between that place and Galena. She has been newly fitted up, and is in excellent order.

RIVER NEWS.—The Oshkosh Democrat has the following items relative to the steamers on the rivers:

The Pesotum, in backing out from Dodge's wharf, day-before-yesterday, from some cause, we have not learned what, broke a shaft, and will have to lie over some days to repair.

The John Mitchell has made one trip from Montello to this place, up Wolf river and back, and then up to Montello. It is now on its second trip up the Wolf, and will start for Montello to-morrow. It is doing a good business.

The Badger State is now making daily trips between Berlin and this place, leaving Berlin every morning, and leaving here after the arrival of the boats from Fond du Lac.

City Matters.

WINCHELL IS HERE!—That prince of comedians and king of ventriloquists, WINCHELL—who wasn't killed by railroad accident, but who has had numerous narrow escapes from being indicted for throwing the people into convulsions—this identical individual, is here. For this evening only, at the Musical Society's Hall, in Dickerman's Block, he will display his stock of oddities to our citizens. Give him a bumper! It will put the town into good humor for a month at least.

"Certainly, he is six or seven single gentlemen rolled up into one. It is well for the community that he is an honest, respectable man; for if he should take it into his head to play the rogue, he would confound the keenest police officers, by the almost magic celerity with which, by a duck under the table, he effects his transformations. It is not merely a change in his dress, which is easily done—he changes his whole person. The man we saw drop, rises, is a different being in age, color, features, everything. Such genuine, hearty, uncontrollable tones of laughter as he exerted, we have rarely heard. He is irresistible."

Geo. C. Treadwell, et. al vs. Charles J. Richards. Action for Trover. Jury empannelled and cause in progress. A. McArthur for pl'ff; R. N. Austin for def't.

Peter Donaher vs. Thomas Clark. In this cause, tried yesterday, the Jury returned a verdict for pl'ff. Damages $250.

A. L. McCrea, et. al. vs James Holton. Action on promissory note. Judgment for pl'ff. $209.—Emmons & Van Dyke for pl'ff.

FAT CATTLE.—The trade in beef cattle is, we are glad to see, increasing rapidly in Wisconsin.—We have heretofore noticed the shipment from our lake ports of considerable numbers this spring. PLANKINTON & Co., have sent forward 100 or thereabouts from here, via the Michigan Central Rail Road.

We rode out yesterday a couple of miles on the Milwaukee & Wauwatosa Plank road—one of the pleasantest roads leading into the city—to look at a fine herd of 50 fat cattle, brought in by MOORE, BROOKS, & Co., of Troy Lakes, for shipment.—They are fair specimens of what Wisconsin can do, without an effort, in the way of raising beef, averaging 1600 lbs on foot, and 10 of the number weighing over 2000 lbs each. They go to Livingston Co. N. Y., to pasture for a few weeks, and will be marketed about the 1st of July.

Mr. Lord's Lecture.

Mr. JOHN LORD, a very able and eloquent Lecturer, will deliver a Lecture this evening at the Free Congregational Church, Main Street, on the attractive theme of "the Jesuits" His reputation will doubtless draw a full house, and his Lecture, we venture to say, will interest and instruct all who attend.

THE PANORAMA.—The proprietor gives to-day an exhibition at 2 o'clock P. M. for the benefit of children and others who cannot so well attend in the evenings. There ought to be a gathering from the schools—and from the streets too—such as would fill the Hall. Scholars can learn more in a couple of hours instruction with this picture before them, than from long months of teaching in the ordinary method. Children of a larger growth need not fear that they will be out of place there. They'd better seize this chance of seeing the "Garden of Eden."

☞ P. W. BADGLEY, at his mammoth store, Nos. 103 and 105 East Water st., is just storing away about 100 tons of groceries, received by the SAGINAW and other vessels. He had no time, it seems, to prepare his advertisement yesterday—a fact for which we are grateful, as our advertising patrons are "crowding the mourners" about these days. We shall have to get half a dozen machine printers, for flesh and blood can't stand it long.

☞ LUDINGTON & Co., our neighbors below-stairs, invite attention to their spring and Summer stock. We are very much inclined to believe all that they say of themselves and their goods, in their advertisement; not only because we have seen the documents, but because their long occupation of quarters in our immediate vicinity must have learned them a constant regard for truth and veracity.

☞ The steamer Sultana from Buffalo arrived here yesterday afternoon, loaded down with passengers and freight. She landed over 300 at this port, among them ten New England families numbering 63 persons, bound for Rock County. Capt. APPLEBY reports plenty of freight and passengers at Buffalo. The Sultana will leave here on her down trip, Thursday (to-morrow evening, from the North Pier.

ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL INSTITUTE. — The summer term of this highly creditable institution for males and females, commences on Monday, May 17th. The principals, Messrs. Dixon and Richardson, inform us that it is now enjoying a high state of prosperity, and we feel assured that pupils entrusted to their charge will receive proper mental and moral training.

STONE CUTTING.—Mr. GEORGE GINDELE, a very worthy man and skilful mechanic, who lost his all by the burning of the Mill at Port Washington, a few weeks since, offers his services to the Milwaukee public as a Stone Cutter. Specimens of his handiwork may be seen at his shop, two doors North of the Oneida-street Bridge.

CRICKET.—The match between the first and second elevens of the Milwaukee Union Cricket Club comes off to-day. The wickets will be pitched at 10 o'clock A. M. A cold collation will be served on the field. All members of the Club are expected to be on hand.

☞ The Pacific, from Chicago, yesterday afternoon, brought a grist of passengers and freight, landing full 300 at this port and taking 100 or so on to Sheboygan. Ward's Steamers on this Lake are reaping a harvest, being crowded full every trip.

AUCTION SALE.—Messrs. Shannon & Conover have a large Auction Sale of Boots and Shoes at their Room, corner of East Water and Wisconsin streets, at 10 o'clock this morning.

NORTH PIER.—This Pier, now under the management of Mr. C. H. TOPPING, has been replanked and put in good repair, this Spring, and will invite a good share of business.

☞ G. P. HEWITT & SON, an old and highly respectable hardware house, are in the receipt of their season supplies of goods in their line, to which they call attention by advertisement in our paper to-day.

THE MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY SENTINEL, MILWAUKEE, May 12, 1852.

The schr Andromeda has been chartered to load with beef and pork for Buffalo at the rate of 12c for corn.

Provisions—Pork more active. Lard steady. Bacon scarce.

Consols 99⅝@99¾.

The Bank of England has reduced the rates of interest to 2 per cent.

Chicago, May 10, 1852.

Receipts are fair and prices under the operations of the Europa's news, tending to an advance. The amount of produce is large, all the steam elevators being full. Shipments are light, owing to the scarcity of vessels, but one having arrived as yet from below. Vessels are held somewhat lower, though no charters have been taken. The Steamer Globe took 2000 bbls flour at 40c.—[Journal.

The Wheat.

WINTER WHEAT.—We are gratified to learn of farmers, that in many parts of Grant county this crop has escaped material injury through the winter—though that healthy protector against the inclemencies of the season, snow, although it failed to make its appearance—for about reason, winter wheat has been a partial failure for two or three years in these regions; and no other cause can be rationally assigned than the one referred to.—Journal.

SPRING WHEAT.—This crop has become the most reliable of late. We fear, however, that the small quantity of land sown in spring wheat this season, will cause a deficit in the wheat crop, and we will have to pay for the neglect.—Grant Co Herald.

NEW YORK AND ERIE RAIL ROAD.—The receipts of the Erie Rail Road for April were:

Passengers and Mail	$133,327 68

Total	$320,825 55
April, 1850	129,149 51
Increase	$191,673 44

This is larger than the estimate in the early part of the month, and the very large amount in view of the fact that Lake Erie remained closed during nearly the entire month.

MICHIGAN CENTRAL RAILROAD.—The receipts for the month of April, for the last two years, are as follows:

	1851.	1852.
Receipts for freight,	$30,949 94	$31,511 12

No. of passengers carried during April,	1851, 17,365

☞ The editor of the Michigan Argus, published at Ann Arbor, says: "From a recent tour through some of the towns in this county, (Washtenaw, we observed that many fields of wheat had been much injured by the severity of the past winter; and some farmers express a doubt of the wheat crop being more than one-half the usual quantity on such fields."

AN OBITUARY.—The following article, from a late number of the Buffalo Republic, a Loco press, has aroused the ire of all the Hunker papers.—Their sensibilities are shocked. We confess there is reason for it:

A TRIBUTE TO THE DEAD.

"On the tomb is seen,
Not what he was, but what he should have been."

With singular disinterestedness, a morning paper, which sometimes indulges in the luxury of supporting the democratic ticket, devotes one-half of a column to a recital of the imaginary virtues of the "late Lewis Cass," claiming that he shall be raised from the dead, if such a thing is possible, and made the democratic nominee for the Presidency by the Baltimore Convention.—For those who are quite as well pleased when they give utterance to a falsehood as when they tell the truth, it is an easy task to indite a lying obituary, but the business of a resurrectionist is something more difficult. There are not many instances recorded of bringing the dead to life.—The Rochester knockers made some progress in that direction; but the world has yet to learn that politicians can, by the aid of fancy sketches, impart vitality to the lifeless remains of the "great Michigander."

The Right Spirit at Work

The Racine Commercial Advertiser, in its leading article last week, on the subject of the coming Whig National Convention, says, and says well:

It is well known that there are some men who heretofore have acted and labored in good faith in the Whig cause, who now in anticipation of a certain course on the part of the Convention, have declared beforehand that with such expected action they have no sympathy, and that therefore they shall withdraw from any further connection with the party. While we certainly regret that it is so, we are glad to know that they have made their election now, that their course has been chosen, their path marked out, leaving those who are willing to sacrifice individual interests and feeling to promote the common good, to labor together, unrancorded and unfettered by their counsels, hopes or fears.

It is useless now to indulge in speculations or calculations as to who will be the nominee of the Convention. It is conceded on all hands, that one of three great men, eminent for their patriotism, and for distinguished services rendered the country in the cabinet or in the field will be chosen. This has now become a fixed fact, confirmed alike by the tone and representations of the whole Whig press, and by the action of the various primary County and State Conventions throughout the country. And the party that can present the claims of three such names as those of Webster, Fillmore or Scott, certainly merits success, and if united will as certainly attain it.

Letters from Mr. Weed---No. 25.

Editorial Correspondence of the Albany Evening Journal

Rome, March 23.

We have been a week in the "Eternal City" though at first, it was not that "Eternal City" of whose "rise, progress and fall" we read; nor was it the Rome of my imagination. Rome, per se, is apparently less ancient in its aspects than many cities of the Continent; less so, even than York, Durham, Salisbury, Chester, &c., in England.—Throughout Rome, as it stands, to the eye of a stranger, the Modern predominates over the Ancient. At first you see every body and every thing looking and acting as elsewhere. Indeed, some of its Antiquities lack the features that usually mark the progress of time. St. Peter's, though erected before America was discovered, looks brighter than St. Paul's Church, in Broadway. In the first view of Rome, therefore, there is disappointment—Dickens, who experienced it, says, after his first view of the City, that "was not the Rome he expected to find, degraded and fallen, and lying asleep in the Sun among a heap of ruins; and I confess to have gone to bed that night with a very considerably quenched enthusiasm."

But these are first impressions only. They soon fade away; and the Rome that was as soon comes up in its greatness and grandeur to fill and impress both the eyes and the mind. You have only to ascend the Pincian, the Capitoline or the Quirinal Hills and look off upon the Coliseum, the Palace of the Cæsars, the Castle of St. Angelo, the Baths of Caracalla, and Pantheon, the Forum, &c., to catch something of the spirit of Rome in her days of triumph and glory. Here you breathe a really ancient Roman atmosphere, and from these land-marks you survey the Theatre in which the great Dramas of Antiquity were enacted.

And having thus, from these vantage grounds, obtained a general knowledge of localities, losing the common-place things of the present, in the magnificent outlines of the past, you go about seeking out Rome's other self among its excavated Temples, Monuments, Columns, Memorials, &c., &c. By degrees, what were at first distant and isolated ruins, combine and associate themselves in your mind as a compact whole, for which, in its Architectural grandeur, the world with its accumulating population and wealth has furnished no parallel. In one quarter alone, extending from the foot of the Capitoline Hill to the Arch of Titus, there is enough of recovered Architectural magnificence to fill the mind and the imagination with amazement. If the Coliseum were the only surviving monument of Rome's former greatness, she would command the wonder and admiration of the modern world. It is difficult to convey an idea of the magnitude of this structure. Though enough of its overwhelming materials have been carried away to erect numerous Mansions and Palaces, enough remains to build a considerable town with. Of the magnitude of St. Peter's it is still more difficult to convey or suggest an idea, for its proportions are so perfect—the parts all harmonize so beautifully—that as a whole it loses its appearance of greatness. It is only by viewing it in detail that you can comprehend or realize its vastness. St. Peter's and the Vatican are said to cover as much ground as Turin, a City of 120,000 inhabitants. This is probably an exaggeration, but it is certain that a walk around them would insure any one a sharp appetite for breakfast. The Dome of St. Peter's does not look much larger than that on our City Hall and yet the City Hall might stand in that Dome. The magnificent Granite and Marble Columns in and about St. Peter's, if placed at the distances which Magnetic Telegraph Posts occupy, would extend from Albany to Troy. There is stone enough in St. Peter's to build up both sides of State Street, from the Exchange to the Park, with the Exchange and Capitol included.

The Hotels of Rome are in a cluster around the Piazza di Spagna. Having established yourself in one of these, the business of sight-seeing commences immediately. The City has been, all winter, and is now, full of strangers, a large sprinkling of whom are from America. We found Gen. J. T. Cooper and Mr. W. H. De Witt with their families. These, with our party, made quite an Albany Representation. From New York and Boston there are at least a dozen Families.

Our first acquaintance was with our Bankers, Messrs. Maguary, Puckenham & Hooker. In the junior partner of this House, Mr. Hooker, we found a most agreeable American, who studies to render to re pleasant to his countrymen. He is connected with a very wealthy House, which does a safe and profitable business. Mr. Hooker is from Chautauque county. He goes home in June to visit his brother in Westfield; and he is quite sure of a warm welcome from numerous friends to whom he has been attentive here.—Two Bostonians (Messrs. Bates and Stuges) are the active Partners in the great Banking House of Baring, Brothers, London; and a New Yorker (Mr. Hooker) is the principal in another great English Banking House in Rome. These incidents are alike gratifying, and creditable to those gentlemen and to American intelligence, enterprise and integrity.

Our next acquaintance was with the Hon. Mr. Cass, the Representative of our Government at the Papal Court, who has not only extended to us every facility in obtaining permission to visit Villas and Palaces, but has accompanied us to several, and been kindly attentive in all respects. The demand upon him for such civilities is constant, for all who come here need and seek the aid of our Minister, and all are cheerfully served. He has already obtained seats for nearly one hundred Americans in St. Peter's, to the ceremonies of the Holy week.

On Sunday we attended Divine Service at the residence of Mr. Cass, where apartments have been fitted up for Stated Preaching, and where the Rev. Mr. Hastings, a man of decided ability, officiates.

We have visited the Studios of Freeman and Terry, American Painters, who have been long enough in Rome to establish a high Italian reputation. With Mr. Freeman's success I am much gratified, for he is, professionally and personally a man of decided worth. As an Artist, he aimed high, but by long and devoted study and labor, he has attained his mark. He goes home in May, taking with him two large pictures, both of which are sold, which have been greatly admired here, and will assuredly extend and perpetuate his fame.—Mr. Terry has been eminently successful here. Like Freeman, he only paints original pictures. For his best picture, Jacob's Dream, he has orders that will require several years to execute. Mr. Chapman, another American painter, is devoting himself successfully to his art. His Studio is adorned with several beautiful heads, either finished or in progress. He is also making a copy of Murillo's mother and child.

We went, of course, to the Studio of the Sculptor CRAWFORD, whose colossal Statues of PATRICK HENRY and THOMAS JEFFERSON, ordered by the Legislature of Virginia to grace a Monument at Richmond, are exciting universal admiration.—They are indeed noble conceptions and noble creations, worthy in all respects of the illustrious Statesmen whose forms and fame they are destined to perpetuate. These figures, together with an Equestrian Statue of WASHINGTON, are to be cast in Bronze at Munich.

Mr. Mosher, of New York, a Sculptor of decided genius, is rising, like most of the American Artists here, to usefulness and fame. Mr. Wood, another Sculptor, has just finished an excellent marble Bust of our townsman, Mr. De Witt, who will avail himself of his visit to Europe to gather up a good many gems.

I am gratified to see that our Artists here are profiting handsomely by the taste and liberality of wealthy Americans who have been in Italy during the present year. It is quite time that more should be done, in this way, to embellish both our public edifices and private mansions. Our country is rich enough now to indulge in this commendable luxury. And a visit to Italy cannot fail to beget and cultivate a taste for Art.

The English and American Families here have beguiled the Winter with private Theatricals, under the especial auspices of Mr. and Mrs. Black, at whose mansion we saw the "Merchant of Venice" played with much Dramatic spirit and effect the other evening. Among the Dramatis Personæ were Mr. and Mr. Story, Mr. Jn. G. Lowell, and Mr. Crawford, and Mr. Hemans, son of the gifted Authoress.

I have seen the works of Gibson, the best English Sculptor, and those of Powers and Crawford, the best American workers in marble. Than these Artists, there are none in Italy of higher, if equal merit. And yet, sublime and beautiful as are the creations of these men, there is an American, now comparatively unknown, who is destined to equal if not surpass them all. This is our townsman, Palmer, who needs only a course of study and practice here with the works of the great masters before him, to take rank among the most distinguished Sculptors of the age.

CAUTION EXTRAORDINARY.

PURCHASERS of "Baking Powder" are requested to buy none but those having the written signature of E. H. Durkee upon the wrapper. This article is now widely known, and Hotel keepers having pronounced it the cheapest and best preparation, for the purposes recommended; and having been brought into general use, by families in this city, there are those who are endeavoring to reap the benefits, by palming off upon the public a "Counterfeit article." See therefore that you purchase none, but "Durkees" whose signature is upon the wrapper of every package.

Green Block, Water St.,
(Between Maiden Lane and Wall Street,)
NEW YORK.

THE SUBSCRIBER PLACED HIS FIRE AND BURGLAR-Proof Iron Safe in competition with the whole world at the great Exhibition in London, for which an immortality awarded a medal.

The American Fair, held last fall at Castle Garden, also awarded to him a gold medal for the best Fire-Proof Safe, and he has never failed to obtain the highest premium when his Safes have been put in competition with others for that purpose. Certificates have been received from the following well-known mercantile houses, who have had their books, papers and money preserved in these superior Safes within the last thirty days, (and one, with many others, be seen at my store,) viz: Isaac Bell & Sons, Brokers, and Mess. J. A. Harriott & Co., Bankers in the Fulton Street fire; Messrs. Fisher & Robinson, and Messrs. John Lockwood & Co., in the great fire corner of Liberty and Nassau Streets, and Messrs. Pryal & Bowman, in the Jersey City fire.

I am the proprietor of HALL'S PATENT LOCK, which obtained a medal (in the name of Adams & Co., Boston,) at the World's Exhibition, and is considered the best Lock for the price, ever invented, being proof against powder, and the Key is no larger than a cent, and can be made alongside.

I invite all purchasers to a close and careful investigation before purchasing, and decide for themselves, who makes the best Fire, Burglar and Damp-Proof Safes combined.

SALAMANDER SAFES.
WILDER'S PATENT AND RICH'S PATENT COMBINED.

$100,000 SAVED.
FIRE in Pearl Street and Fletcher Street, New York.—Three Stores and their contents destroyed. Deeds before worth!

RICH'S SAFES AGAIN!
EXTRA Safes of different makers consumed, with their contents! The Safe made by Rich & Co. defied the flames and brought out its contents without a mark of fire upon them!

MR. GILBERT'S LETTER,
THE FIRE IN FLETCHER AND PEARL-STS., NEW YORK.
New York, Dec. 20, 1851.
MESSRS. STEARNS and MARVIN, successors, to C. Rich & Co., No. 146, Water Street, New York—Sirs, when the fire was consuming my Office and Store of Business, No. 246, Pearl Street, I was absent in Rensselaer County, testing a new cleaning apparatus in connection with my Excelsior Thrasher, and did not read the account until I was fearful it was too late to save my books which were placed in one of your safes, purchased from Mr. Marvin some years ago. My fears were not stayed when I found it necessary upon my return to apply the Croton Water to subdue the flames before I was enabled to commence operations; after which it required 54 hours of labor and application to raise the Salamander from its safe bed. You may judge of my anxiety during this delay, and my agreeable surprise upon opening the safe in the presence of a number of gentlemen, to find my books and papers saved, and as legible as they were previous to the fire. The intense heat to which the Safe was subjected, can be conjectured from the condition of another safe, (not a Salamander) of which an iron skeleton frame only remained, and not a vestige of a book. They were compartments in the same office, on the second floor, from which they fell upon crates of earthen ware in the cellar, the ruined safe upon the Salamander. If their positions had been reversed, not even the skeleton would have remained. My loss over the insurance is $1,000, yet the salvation of my books is to your Salamander, with the representative of $100,000, and important documents which could not be duplicated, has fully compensated me.

It will afford me great pleasure to exhibit the new safe purchased of you, and explain its merits, at my present office, No. 251 Pearl street, where I shall remain until the new building, No. 215, is erected.
Yours respectfully, JOSEPH G. GILBERT.

The undersigned invite country merchants and those interested in the preservation of their books from fire, (but particularly those having Rich's safe in use,) to call at the depot 146 Water street, New York, to see the interior of Mr. Gilbert's safe with the books undisturbed, which he has kindly permitted to remain for the satisfaction and gratification of the public.

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC!
THE following advertisement was published in May, 1849, in the "Boston Daily Times," and various other newspapers in the United States, by James G. Wilson, Esq., the owner of the "Woodworth Patent," shortly after I had advertised my "PATENT STATIONARY CUTTER PLANING, TONGUEING, AND GROOVING MACHINE," throughout the United States:

"PLANING MACHINES.
"I take this method of answering the frequent inquiries, by letter and otherwise, as to my opinion upon the various notices through the papers, of the Stationary Knife Planing Machines attempted to be palmed off upon several persons ignorant of their true worth. I would state for the information of the enquirers that they will find substantially the machine now offered by several pretending inventors, described in the 16th volume of the Repertory of Arts, invented by Samuel Bentham, in the year 1791. A like machine was patented in this country by one Kugler, some sixteen years since, and another one put up by Albert Richards, of West Troy, N. Y., and abandoned about the same time. It only to satisfy the public to know that after fifty eight years experimenting upon these machines, not one in use is of any value for the purposes contemplated.

"I will furnish a stationary Knife Machine equal to any now in use, or to any offered by the pretending inventors, at the cost of the machine and fourteen cent for my trouble.
JAMES G. WILSON,
May 19, 1849. Philadelphia."

I deny that any person ever saw or heard of such a machine as mine until I invented the same. Said machine was operated in the month of August, 1848, and no machine before this could do so much work, and do it as well as mine. In reply to the above advertisement, and in order that the public may be assured that I mean what I say, I will offer to pledge ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS against an equal amount from said Wilson, that ONE of my machines will plane, or plane, tongue and groove with the power, as much lumber in the same time, and do it as well, or better than TWO of the "Woodworth" machines. The trial to be made at my Steam Mill, Border St., East Boston, Mass., or at such other place as may be convenient for such a trial.

HAS removed to his New Stores, four doors north from his old stand, at Nos. 103 & 105, E. Water-st., where he has on hand a very heavy stock of GROCERIES, and would invite those wishing to purchase goods in his line to give his stock an inspection before purchasing. It has not only been the aim of the subscriber to sell as low as any other similar establishment in the West, but to convince purchasers that he can and will sell as low as Jobbers of Groceries in New York can sell them for! The subscriber has been engaged in the Wholesale Grocery Business in New York for six years prior to opening in this market. WATER-CURE ESTABLISHMENT,
BRATTLEBORO, VERMONT.
THE Proprietor, DR. R. WISSELHOEFT, begs leave to inform the public, that he has recovered from his severe sickness, and is now again to attend to his professional duties. Former and new patients, therefore, may depend upon his giving due attention to their cases. They will also find comfortable and pleasant accommodations both for themselves and friends, but will please to remember that the establishment is intended for the cure of diseases by means of water, and not for a hotel at a fashionable watering place, where to while away the time and a quiet summer residence, the house has many attractions besides its Water-cure, for Nature has indeed been lavish of her gifts on this romantic and healthy section of the country.

G. GRÆSSLE'S
PRESSED, FIRE-PROOF TILING.
CERTIFICATES OF RECOMMENDATION.
BY the present, I attest my entire satisfaction with the roof of my house, covered with the pressed, fire-proof Tile, laid by Mr. Græssle, having found them perfectly secure during snow-storms, rains, wind and intense cold. I hereby take occasion to recommend said roof covering to every house-builder, inviting them to satisfy themselves by occular inspection of the excellent quality of the same.
ENNO MEYER,
Druggist, 374 W. Water-st., 2nd ward.
Milwaukee, Feb. 3, 1852.

The above I found true in every respect, as to the roof of my house, covered with the same, laid, invented by Mr. Græssle.
AUGUST KRUG,
Brewer, Chestnut-st., 2nd ward.

The undersigned, having carefully examined the pressed roofing Tiles, invented by Mr. Græssle, have found them perfectly answering the purpose intended. Their practical and superious construction recommend them to the public not only as a fire-proof but also as a perfectly water-proof covering, but above all for its durability. Thereridges and channels not only exclude the entering of snow or rain-water, but, by their form and projecting of one over the other, they give to the single Tile as well as to the whole covering an absolutely moveable position and an intimate connection. Besides this, Mr. Græssle's method of burning the Tiles, by reason of the injurious tendency to absorb water, making them in this way durable; and joining to the above another virtue, viz: that of dispensing with repairs, I undersigned therefore consider ourselves fully justified in recommending to the building community the above roofing Tile as an excellent and valuable material.
OTTO SCHLEIDEN, Architects
VICTOR SCHULTE, } & Builders.
Milwaukee, Feb. 5, 1852.

To Q. Græssle—I have examined the Roofing Tile made by you, and have no hesitation in recommending them to general use, and particularly as a fire-proof roof.
